

The radio stations need to quit complaining and improve their own shows and information so they can compete with XM. No one likes to listen to fifteen seconds of traffic information then a minute of advertising by the traffic commentor. We need information not commercials.